SHLEMIEL

SHLEMAZEL

You pay $500 to cross a chicken with a light bulb. It fails. The chicken flickers.

You order new carpeting for your living room. You give the store your address and apartment . . . 4K. The workmen come while you're at work to rip up the old carpet and install the new one. Your neighbor-upstairs in 5K loves the new carpeting they installed by mistake. It costs you $1,000, but at least now you don't hear footsteps on top of you!

The apartment house painter comes to paint by you the kitchen. You tell him he should make it "dusty pink" . . . he thought you said "paint the sink", and the landlord sues you for damaging apartment house property. Pay $200.

At your nephew Brucie's Bar Mitzvah they put you at a table right in front of the orchestra, your Aunt Gussie who never liked you anyway drops chopped liver down your back, Cousin Yetta says she has the same outfit, only she got it wholesale, but don't worry, for once you're not such a shlemiel . . . you only sent a $10 check!

Pay $300 for a second hand mink stole.
It rains. The mink has a funny odor!
